Register Early! Enrollment is Limited

Jointly Sponsored by:
University of Wisconsin School of Medicine and Public Health
Department of Surgery, Division of Transplantation
Office of Continuing Professional Development in Medicine and Public Health
University of Wisconsin-Madison Continuing Education in Nursing
University of Wisconsin Hospital and Clinics
Course Description
The care of the transplant patient, from eligibility and evaluation to long-term follow-up presents challenges to health care professionals. Issues such as organ rejection, infection and heart disease can be challenging to address. Faculty speakers will examine and discuss important patient care issues in kidney, pancreas and liver transplantation.

Intended Audience
This conference is intended for nephrologists, endocrinologists, gastroenterologists, hepatologists, internal medicine physicians, physician assistants, nurse practitioners and nurses with an interest in kidney, pancreas and/or liver transplantation.

Elements of Competence
This CME activity has been designed to change learner competence and focuses on the American Board of Medical Specialties areas of patient care and medical knowledge.

Learning Objectives
At the conclusion of this activity, participants will be able to:

1. Describe the history and current practice of kidney, pancreas and liver transplantation both nationally and at the University of Wisconsin.
2. Identify the indications and contraindications for transplantation in your clinical practice.
3. Explain the outcomes and current issues in the long-term follow-up care of the transplant patient.
4. Explain current research and discuss the future of organ transplantation and how it may impact your clinical practice.

Adjourn
Serving citizens of Wisconsin, the United States and the world for more than 40 years, the UW Health Transplant Program has gained international recognition for leadership in organ preservation, transplant surgery and care of transplant patients.

Highlights

- In 1983, Dr. Hans Sollinger, Folkert O. Belzer Professor of Surgery, pioneered a surgical technique called the Wisconsin Technique used in pancreatic transplantation worldwide
- UW Solution, the organ preservation solution used worldwide, was developed at the UW by Drs. Folkert O. Belzer and James Southard in 1987
- In 1994, the first split liver transplant was performed at UW Hospital
- The first Islet Cell Transplant in Wisconsin was performed at UW Hospital in 2002
- In 2007, UW Health surgeons performed the nation’s first combined kidney/pancreas transplant post-desensitization using deceased donor organs
- The 1000th simultaneous kidney/pancreas transplant was performed at UW Hospital in 2008, more than any other program in the world
- In 2009, the state’s first domino liver transplant was performed at UW Hospital
- The UW Health Transplant team celebrated the state’s first four-way paired live-donor kidney exchange in 2010
